A Note From The Author

This book is a work of fiction.

It is a fairy tale born from illusion and imagination.

Any names, characters, places, and events are products of my mind.

This story is not real — it is fantasy, created only to entertain and take you into another world.

Yours truly,

Carlos Jerome Johnson

Great Bend, Kansas

Thanks for everything, I appreciate you.

Chapter 1 — She was never supposed to wake up

The first thing she felt was heat.

Not the warmth of sunlight or a fire built in hearth, but a deep, pulsing heat that hummed through her bones, like stars collapsing and being born again all at once. For a hundred years the capsule had been silent, sealed in ice and steel below the ruined Observatory of Veyl. No one had spoken her name in generations. No one was meant to.

The glass cracked with a sound like distant thunder. Crimson light spilled through the fractures, illuminating dust that had not moved since the Last War. The girl inside did not breathe. She did not move. Yet the runes carved around the chamber flared to life, glowing in patterns that matched the flicker of the cosmos beyond the broken dome roof.

Her eyes opened. Red. Gold. Alive.

Chapter 2 — The Boy Who Woke Her

She looked at her hands. Fire was moving under her skin.

The boy said, "You are the last Fireborn."

"The kingdom tried to hide you." His voice was low, steady, caieful. "Breathe," he said softly. "You control the fire."

Chapter 3 — The Chase

Footsteps. Shouting.

"GET HER!"

"DON'T LET HER LEAVE!"

Her heart started racing.
And the fire listened.

BOOM! Light shot out of her hands.

"Breathe," the boy gasped as he pulled her forward.
"You control it."

Chapter 4 — The Fire Spirit

What did they put in me?

Not WHAT. WHO.

"A fire spirit," the boy said quietly.

"An ancient one. It chose YOU."

"And only you can carry it."

Chapter 5 — I Am Not An Experiment

"I don't want to be an experiment anymore."

"Then don't be."

"Be what you were born to be."

She turned around. Her eyes glowed like stars.

"You wanted an experiment?"

"You made a Fireborn."

Chapter 6 — The Sky Lights Up

And the whole sky lit up with fire and magic.

Above the kingdom, the night was no longer dark. Gold and crimson and bluer magic swirled across the clouds like a living aurora, lighting up every tower, every roloftop, every street below.

She smiled.

"I am not an experiment," she whispered.

"I am a STAR."

The boy looked at her, smiling too. "Then shine."

The fire around her glowed brighter, brighter, dancing like stardust in the wind.

Dragons flew overhead, their wings sparkling with embrr and starlight, as the whole city watched in wonder.

"And this is only the beginning," she said softtly.
